Details

Managed Backup from noris is a file system backup service that stores your data to be backed up on a highly redundant, multi-location Ceph object storage system. This ensures that accidentally deleted or lost files can be reliably restored - independent of location, even in the event of a disaster.

An incremental backup is performed daily and a full backup once a week. Our service backs up your data at file system level. For this purpose, noris provides a backup agent, available for all current Window and Window Server operating systems as well as Linux 64-bit derivatives (others on request).

noris will restore your data from the backup via service request or as part of incident management. This ensures the smoothest possible operation of your applications. If desired, your data can also be transferred and stored encrypted to the backup system. This optional feature is unlocked via an additional license.
